Ms. Browner,

The enclosed material is a portion of a sample that was collected on the ground after unusual aircraft activity was observed overhead. Citizens from all over the United States have reported seeing this same substance literally falling from the sky. This fibrous material has several unique and remarkable qualities; it is extremely adhesive, wavy and elastic. This sample is composed of individual fibers which have been measured at less than one micron in width. As it is microscopic in nature, it poses a potential and serious health risk.

As our public servant, you are duty-bound and obligated to thoroughly examine and identify this material and to release your findings to the public. On behalf of countless concerned citizens, we await your prompt response.

Sincerely,

David C. Peterson
